Entry 7

We began thinking about research methods in an attempt to prepare for the next writing assignment, which is a lab report. Research has always been a big part of learning and writing for me. Being able to research a topic well and find information relevant to a topic is crucial when writing a report or explaining a subject. Watching youtube videos and googling the subject can be extremely useful when attempting to learn general info relating to the topic, and then utilizing more specific databases to look up scholarly articles will help the researcher better und
